Introduction

Welcome to Paris Yank, a guide crafted by Parisians, tailored for anglophone visitors to Paris. Whether you're planning your first trip to the City of Light or you're a seasoned traveler, Paris Yank provides an authentic, local perspective to help you explore, enjoy, and experience Paris like a true local Parisian.

Our Mission

Paris Yank aims to bridge the gap between the local charm of Paris and the needs of English-speaking visitors. Our goal is to make your visit smooth, enjoyable, and memorable, offering insider tips and practical advice, especially for those unfamiliar with city life. By the way, "Our" Mission means we the Community of Paris Yank contributors.

Note that this website is in a Wiki Style and does not present flash and pow as many current websites present. Our goal is to present as much information as possible to the reader without a lot of 'blah, blah.' It's just our style

Although Paris Yank offers a variety of features, the main goal is to provide a guide of Paris [and other cities] written by locals of those cities.

Connect and Share

Paris Yank is not just a guide; it’s a community. Engage with fellow travelers and locals through our social features:

Site Navigation

With so many links, pages, subjects and discussions…this Wiki website may be complex. This Wiki runs on a mobile phone but navigation is more difficult because the menus do not fit on a mobile phone screen.

There are several ways to navigate

1. Logo on the top left side: click to reach the Wiki Homepage
2. Left-hand column will contain list of contents within the subject within you are located. For example… “Go → Paris” will have a list of contents specifically for Paris.
3. Upper right page has a list of contents for the page that you visit
